Maximizing Audition and Communication in a Heterogeneous Population of Children with Hearing Loss: Intervention Strategies and Range of Outcomes

Each child with hearing loss has a unique personal and family profile. The combination of these factors results in a spectrum of outcomes for children who are learning to listen and speak. Factors that influence outcomes will be discussed from this comprehensive perspective. Through discussions, case studies and videos, (re)habilitation strategies and children's responses to them will be presented. The cases presented will illustrate the pivotal role of audition in the development of seven levels of communicative competence.
